You Are

Basil

You value deep, authentic relationships. You're not big on small talk. You are deeply spiritual, even if you don't talk about it much. Deep down you are good with yourself and the world. You are unpretentious and natural. You couldn't be another way even if you tried. You have a beautiful soul, and it shines through in the way you treat others.

I was thinking cinnamon or nutmeg

I remember I was in Santa Barbara over 15 years ago for a meeting when I heard the screeching of 3-4 wild peacocks nearby. I was struck with their harsh sounds, an unexpected contrast from their beauty. In this case, its preening a near spiritual encounter. How fortuitous it was caught on video.

Of the 46 original settlers of Pueblo de la Reina de los Angeles de Porciuncula, latter to become the City of Los Angeles, California, two were Filipino -- Antonio Miranda Rodriguez, 50, and his daughter Juana Maria, 11.

Twenty-six of the 46 settlers were listed as either "mulatto" or "negro." Only two were listed as Spanish. The rest were Indians, coyotes and mestizos.

Mike Pangilinan, check this out. On the Mojica petition for exemption from tribute:

wretched voyage to Acapulco, which took about 200 days. It was on sea that the weary but hopeful passengers celebrated the New Year of 1674. Then the frail Padre Landa fell ill. Just before they could make out the silhouette of Acapulco, he expired in the arms of the inconsolable Ignacio on 9 January 1674.⁴³

THE SUMMER OF 1677

No one was sent from Manila to replace the late Padre Landa. Ignacio languished with the Jesuits in México until the arrival in 1676 of the next procurator, Padre Pedro Espinar, accompanied by his alternate, Padre Francisco Salgado. The dutiful priests took Ignacio with them to Europe, finally reaching Madrid in the summer of 1677.⁴⁴

A relator (court reporter) of the Council of the Indies, Licenciado Ferrer, was assigned to summarize Mójica's petition. From the outset, only his request for total exemptions for his noble house was ever given serious consideration. Noting his Pampango background, Ferrer retrieved the royal cédula of 1649 exempting all Pampangos from paying tributes although Mójica himself did not invoke this fact. Ferrer appended it to Mójica's dossier on 15 July 1677. This crucial move was most likely suggested by Don Pedro's attorneys-in-fact, Ignacio and the unnamed Jesuit procurator in Madrid. From this point on, it was smooth sailing for Mójica's supplication.⁴⁵

The fiscal of the council reviewed Mójica's papers on 21 July and did not find anything questionable in them. Thus, when the council assembled on 30 July – the vigil of the feast of San Ignacio de Loyola, founder of the Society of Jesus – it unanimously endorsed Mójica's plea for approval by the king. As usual, His Majesty concurred and affixed his signature to his royal grant to the Mójicas in Madrid on 22 August 1677.⁴⁶

The triumph of the Mójicas was well worth their sacrifices. What worked in their favor was a combination of timing, luck, a certain shrewdness on their part and the Jesuit influence. Although they were not bestowed the patent of nobility, which they had not asked for, they were, in fact, endowed with the privilege of the hidalguía, the lowest tier of the Spanish gentry, like the Spaniards in the Philippine colony.

The books of register at the Archivo General de Indias show that there were some other Filipino Indios in the 17th century who applied for, and received similar but limited benefits, ranging from partial to total exemptions for a lifetime or up to two or three generations only.⁴⁷ There was only one other Indio clan who received perpetual privileges like the Lakandulans and greater than the Mójicas in the early 17th century: the de Veras of Pangasinán. In 1624, the Maestre de Campo Don Juan de Vera of Binalatongan was given the following concessions: (1) an encomienda of 1,000 pesos in tributes per year

Philip Wayne A number of Christians are predicting the beginning of a catastrophic event after multiple blood moons this year and next. Prelude to three days of darkness.....a punishment from God for man that will destroy a good portion of man kind. The Blood moons coincide with major Jewish Holy Days and in scripture previous blood moons were a prelude to major events in history. We will see!

To stay with the theme of animals standing on others, goats are known to climb on top of almost anything. Here a special bond. Wise words, Mr. Silverstein

Visit <http://rtvote.com/trendurvoice> to #TrendUrVoice in the 2014 elections

THE VOICE

There is a voice inside of you
That whispers all day long,
"I feel that this is right for me,
I know that this is wrong."
No teacher, preacher, parent, friend
Or wise man can decide What's right for you—just listen to
The voice that speaks inside.
